PARKERISMS

PARAGRAPHS PLEASANT, PUN-GENT, PROFITABLE OR OTHERWISE

One of the best men I ever knew is a bachelor. I have known him very intimately for thirty years and to my oft-repeated urgings, "Why don't you get married?" his reply has been, "I cannot afford it." Then I endeavored to convince him that any two well-disposed persons could live cheaper in marriage than each single—if they would live for themselves and not for the public. They might have to forego operas and joyrides for a while, but they would soon learn how much there was to enjoy in the world without these.

To Eugene, Oregon, came thirty young men—an engineering corps to build a railroad. For economy's sake they established bachelors' headquarters. Whether from a change of views on the economy question or the seductive witchery of Oregon girls, this deponent saith not, but the fact is, all but five of the original "batch den" are now married and stimulated thereto by the "high cost of living," declaring that two can live more cheaply than one—possibly more cheaply as one.

"Sixteen to one" had an inning in South Dakota the other day, but not on the Bryan financial plan. Seventeen of the most sizeable citizens of the state voted on the wet-dry question. Sixteen voted dry, one wet, the result in this line being pleasing to the secretary, nearly as was the metal folly of a few years ago.

California is first of all among the states to recognize party nominations for all officials, that deal with the general government in any way, while for all the state and county officials partyism is entirely wiped out. It would bother any perpendiclar mind to determine what qualification the party stamp would add to anyone in local affairs.

While never on the list of handsome men, the president of the United States is entitled to his best—which he is not getting in the picture that accompanies the installment history of the United States now appearing in some publications. We could account for a shading of sadness, because of family sorrow and great official burdens, but that "facial contortion" is suggestive of over indulgence in under-ripe fruit.

"Oh, turn, turn away" from the religious debate now ended (with both sides coming out at the same hole they went in at) and from the Sebastian muddle, of which "the more you read the less you know," but for "entertaining reading" take up the Barnes-Roosevelt trial and ask yourself how much bonus you are willing to give Barnes for his $50,000 damage suit against the colonel.

Familiar with his name and good works for years in Chicago, it was indeed a pleasure to meet Dr. Shaw at the high school meeting Monday evening and to listen to that able lecture delivered with grace, dignity and ease and in a rich, full tone, enabling every auditor to hear every word distinctly.

After making a magnificent fight for freedom and franchise and securing a great moral victory, rising to the clear ether and breathing the pure air of freedom, the California Sisterhood left off the perch, and now sits in slavery's dust and ashes, hugging the chains that bind them. By beating the bill for women jury service, they saw off their usefulness as citizens at a very vital point.

And now comes Clinton Wonder—do you wonder who he is? I'll tell you. He's a boomer and understands his biz. He is a public manager of the wholesale liquor trade and when he can get it published, he makes a great parade. Just now, this modern Wonder issues a bold defi, saying anti-saloon shriekers about Abe Lincoln lie when they declare that he was teetotal or prohib, for Abe used to sell it and tasted many a drib. This single-witness Wonder the whole world has defied, for nearly everybody else is on the other side.

A walk around the city delights the eye of the pedestrian as he sees what pains have been taken to cover up bare space in some way suggestive of beautification. Of course, flowers dominate in this bewildering in variety and gorgeous in coloring. The practical comes in for commendation also, for in several instances rows of potatoes were used, very vigorous and full of promise.

INTERESTING RELIC

MRS. C. M. TURCK HAS MEMENTO
OF THE DAYS OF THE CIVIL WAR

Mrs. C. M. Turck of 521 North Glendale avenue, Tropic, has a most interesting relic of Civil war times which was given to her by her mother and which is a cherished memento. In these days of blanket sheet newspapers, a little four-column edition printed on the back of a remnant of wall paper is indeed a curiosity from every point of view. The paper in the possession of Mrs. Turck is a copy of the Vicksburg, Miss., Daily Citizen and is headed "Wall Paper Edition." It was set up for print on July 2, 1863, just before the surrender of General Lee to General Grant, but was printed by the Union soldiers after Lee had surrendered and issued by the order of General Grant on July 4.

Among the news items appears this significant one: "The great Ulysses, the Yankee generalissimo, surnamed Grant, has expressed his intention of dining in Vicksburg Saturday next and celebrating the Fourth of July with a grand dinner. Ulysses must get into the city before he dines in it. The way to cook a rabbit is 'first catch the rabbit,' etc."

The paper was printed exactly as it had been set up by the Southern printers with the exception of the addition of the following note: July 4, 1863; two days bring about great changes. The banner of the Union floats over Vicksburg. Gen. Grant has 'caught the rabbit.'"

He has dined in Vicksburg and he did bring his dinner with him. The Citizen lives to see it. For the first time it appears on "wall paper." No more will it eulogize the luxury of mule meat and fricaseed kitten; urge Southern warriors to such diet nevermore. This is the last wall paper Citizen and is, excepting for this note, from the types as we found them. Printer-soldiers set this note and worked the form.

The paper is a four-column edition and the only advertiser is George R. Fuller of Rochester, N. Y., who calls the attention of soldiers to prices for artificial limbs.

Mrs. Turck is indeed fortunate in possessing such a relic, which will grow of more interest and value as the years go by.

ODDFELLOWSHIP 96 YEARS OLD

Carnation Rebekah lodge with the members of Glendale lodge of Odd Fellows celebrated the 96th anniversary of Odd Fellowship at the I. O. O. F. hall, Third and Isabel streets, last evening. The lodge room and the reception hall were very elaborately decorated in red and white roses carrying out a most beautiful decorative effect.

A committee composed of Mrs. H. C. Smith, Mrs. Gilson and Mr. Hartley had arranged a splendid musical program, which was nicely carried out. Eugene Moore and Elizabeth Cadd gave a pretty violin and piano duet. Miss Lucile Negley favored with a piano solo. Miss Mavis McNary sang very sweetly accompanied by Miss Roberta Hopping, who also gave a piano solo. Mr. and Mrs. Sychalski brought sweet strains from the mandolin and piano and after a clever reading by Mrs. Hunter and a brief history of the order by Rev. C. R. Norton, all were summoned to the banquet hall, where the long tables decorated with quantities of pink and white roses and fern and the delicious odors that came from the kitchen were most inviting. The banquet was served under the direction of Miss Zadah Sprinkle and Miss Arbuthnot and the large number present made great inroads upon the large quantities of good things provided.

Those who were present to celebrate the 96th birthday of this noble order will long have occasion to remember it as a bright spot in their lives.

STARKEY LEAVES FOR ILLINOIS

W. P. Starkey, who for four years has resided on a ranch near Glendale, left Tuesday evening for Illinois where he will visit relatives and friends in the vicinity of Champaign. Mr. Starkey is making the trip over the Santa Fe route. The occasion of his leaving on this extended journey was celebrated by a dinner at the home of Mr. Earl Starkey on Belmont street, Glendale, Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock. There were present at this event Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Starkey and son Robert of Burbank, Harry Starkey, Art, Earl and George Starkey. The dinner was greatly enjoyed by all present, after which the entire party accompanied the traveler to Los Angeles and bade him farewell at 9 p. m., when he left for the East.

HONOR SOLDIER DEAD

PATRIOTIC ORGANIZATIONS
MAKE PLANS TO CELEBRATE
MEMORIAL DAY

The committees appointed by the three patriotic organizations of N. P. Banks, G. A. R. Post, Women's Relief Corps and Sons of Veterans, have arranged the program for Decoration day.

Saturday, May 29, will be observed, and in the morning appropriate exercises will be held at Grand View cemetery, conducted by these three organizations.

In the afternoon similar exercises will be conducted in Forest Lawn cemetery.

Memorial Sunday, which will be the 30th, will be observed by holding memorial services in G. A. R. hall at 2:30 o'clock. The memorial sermon will be delivered by Comrade W. C. Gibbon, who bears the remarkable distinction of being not only a veteran, and a member of the G. A. R., but also a son of a veteran.

The members of these three organizations earnestly desire that all citizens of this entire valley join with them in observing these memorial services. Memorial day is set apart as a most sacred and hallowed day, and should be observed as such, whether one is a member of a patriotic organization or whether he simply knows that we have a flag and a country of which we should all reverence and honor.

Our country's emblem is the proudest banner that floats and our country leads all other countries. Our institutions are the grandest and noblest. Let us, upon May 30, do honor to our country and our flag.

At the regular semi-monthly meeting of N. P. Banks Camp No. 22, Sons of Veterans, held Tuesday night in G. A. R. hall, O. Perry Martin and Eugene H. Imler were initiated into the camp. Mr. Martin, as the son of a veteran, and Eugene Imler as the grandson of J. B. Hickman.

Many members of the Post and Corps were present to witness the beautiful initiation ceremonies. Patriotic talks were made by J. W. Durham, patriotic instructor of the Camp, Delos Jones, color bearer, Mrs. D. H. Imler, president of N. P. Banks Corps, Miss Hickman, Comrades Robert Taylor, Thomas Gillett and Wilson. J. B. Hickman sang a song.

At the close of the program Comrade Johnson, junior vice commander conducted a drill in which eight sons participated.

ST. MARK'S PARISH MEETING

St. Mark's church held its annual parish meeting last night which was the largest ever attended in Glendale, and was delightful in every way. The reports of the rector and church treasurer, and of the different guilds, showed that the church was growing rapidly, and everybody was enthused to make the coming year even more prosperous than the last. Refreshments were furnished by the women's Guild, and an enjoyable time was had.

The former vestry were re-elected for another year. The new members are: Charles L. Peckham, senior warden; Richardson D. White, junior warden; John T. Crampton, treasurer; W. W. Worley, secretary; Albert C. Read, Albert D. Pearce, and J. Herbert Smith.

The following persons were elected as delegates to the annual convention which meets in Los Angeles May 19: Dr. D. W. Hunt, E. L. Young, F. P. Wilson, A. M. Parker, H. J. Horn.

MUST GIVE TRANSFERS

The city of Los Angeles took action Tuesday to compel the Pacific Electric and the Los Angeles railway to issue transfers at Temple street and Lakeshore avenue, Third and Figueroa, Sixth and Figueroa, Sixth and Olive, Sixth and Hill, and Seventh and Figueroa streets. Mandamus proceedings looking to this end were brought in the superior court.

It is a revival of the old controversy that arose when Henry E. Huntington sold the Pacific Electric to the Southern Pacific, and a sudden stop was brought to the interchange of transfers on the Temple and Edendale, Edendale and Crown Hill, Edendale and West Sixth, Edendale and West Seventh, West Eighth and South Hill and the Brooklyn avenue lines.

Transfers were given at the time the Glendale line was purchased by the Los Angeles Interurban Railway company. Mr. Huntington purchased the interurban system on February 10, 1910, and later sold to the Los Angeles railway.

In 1911 the Interurban, Los Angeles and Redondo and the Pacific Electric systems were consolidated. It is the contention of the city that it was the duty of the Pacific Electric to issue transfers without extra charge.

TO LAUNCH FESTIVAL

BOOSTER TEA WILL INAUGURATE
FESTIVAL—MANY FEATURES
ARE BEING PLANNED

A big "booster tea" will be given on Saturday afternoon and evening, May 8th, at the residence of Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, 106 Orange street, at which time the Glendale Festival of Fruits and Flowers will be officially launched into the sea of publicity. The young people will be especially entertained in the afternoon and the husbands are invited for the evening. Refreshments will be served both afternoon and evening.

The queen candidates will be presented at this tea and one thousand booster buttons will be on sale under the direction of Mrs. J. W. Usilton and Mrs. E. D. Yard and their committees.

There will be an exhibit of posters in the poster contest. Class A in this contest will be for students of high school age, and class B for children of the sixth, seventh and eighth grades. All school children within these limits are eligible to enter this contest. The winner will have the privilege of drawing the posters for the festival.

Plans for the festival are maturing rapidly. Thursday, May 27, will be "queen's night" and the program will be preceded by a parade under the direction of Mr. J. W. Usilton and a number of organizations will take part. Among these are the Elks' Patrol and the Knights Templar, who will give drills on the high school grounds. The winner in the queen contest will ride in a beautiful float of Shasta daisies and will be crowned at the high school later. The crowning of the queen will be a feature of the artistic floral program which will be given under the direction of Mrs. Wayland Brown. Announcements of the names of candidates for queen will be made by May 1 through the columns of The News.

In another column of today's issue will be found a special announcement in regard to the exhibit of fruits and flowers.

Among the many attractions of the festival will be a "better baby" contest. Mrs. Scott Johnson will be in charge of this attractive feature. Two gold medals and two silver medals for the two best girl babies and the two best boy babies will be provided. There will be blue ribbons and a physical chart for every baby entered. This contest will be conducted by Glendale physicians and nurses. The registration bureau will be open May 11 at Masonic temple. Babies six months to five years may enter, the registration fee being 25 cents each. A baby parade with decorated baby buggies will precede the program Saturday afternoon.

The commercial department is planning a home-cooked cafeteria dinner Friday and Saturday, May 28 and 29, from 5 to 8 o'clock. They promise pie "like mother used to make."

Another feature of the festival is a free auto ride to visitors every hour of the day under the direction of Mr. A. T. Cowan and his committee.

Watch the Evening News for other festival announcements from time to time.

MRS. BRYANT UNDERGOES OPERATION

Mrs. Bryant of 421 South Jackson street, wife of Dr. A. L. Bryant, underwent a surgical operation Tuesday for the purpose of removing a portion of the left shoulder, which had become the seat of a severe case of blood poisoning. The poisoning originated from a very slight scratch on the shoulder. Mrs. Bryant's many friends will be pleased to learn that her condition is greatly improved since the operation.

MRS. LIEBERNETT GOES TO STOFFEL'S

Mrs. D. A. Liebernett has accepted a position in the office of Stoffel's auto service and will begin her work tomorrow. Mrs. Liebernett has been connected with the Gold Fish restaurant for two and a half years and has proved herself to be very popular with the public as well as faithful in the performance of duty.

SPEAK WELL OF GLENDALE

Strangers who visit Glendale have many words of praise to speak in favor of this beautiful city. The electric lighting system so perfectly installed and the substantial appearance of Broadway and Brand boulevard bring forth favorable comment. The well-planned school buildings come in for their share of praise and the many beautiful residences and well-kept lawns are attractions that leave a favorable impression in the mind of the stranger. Glendale is all right.

PREFERS TRENCHES

FRENCHMAN IN LOCAL JAIL FOR THEFT WISHES HIMSELF
ON BATTLEFIELD

Chief Herald and his men have succeeded in ferreting out the thief of about $125 worth of carpenter tools which were stolen from a building one night last week, and now have the thief in the city jail waiting trial on a charge of grand larceny.

The prisoner, Peter Marius, a Frenchman, has been stopping for the past few weeks with a friend at the corner of Pacific avenue and Patterson street, where he was arrested late Tuesday. He confessed to the theft and revealed the hiding place of the tools and they were easily recovered from their hiding place beneath the house on Pacific avenue, where they were buried.

In his talk to a News reporter he was very frank to admit his guilt and could not assign any reason why he took the tools unless it was that he had been in Los Angeles the day previous drinking very heavily and was probably crazed from drink and did not know what he was doing. He asked the reporter what he thought they would do with him and when told that he was more than likely due for a trip to the pen, said from what he had heard he would rather take his chances in the trenches in the European war than to face a judge in the Glendale court.

RAINY SEASON LINGERS

The rainy season is stretching over a considerable period of time, gentle and refreshing showers having visited this section Tuesday night, nearly seven months after the first rain of the season, which occurred October 3rd. According to the records of Mr. H. E. Bartlett of 101 North Brand boulevard, who keeps accurate account of the rainfall, nearly nineteen inches have fallen this season up to 10 a. m. this morning.

While it is generally considered that such heavy rains so late in the season are unusual, Mr. H. H. Plasterer of 200 South Jackson street says that three years ago in May he had a very severe rainstorm. Two years ago the latter part of June this section was also visited by heavy showers.

WAS PLAY A SUCCESS?

MISS RICHARDSON, POLLY'S BUSI-NESS MANAGER, MAKES STATEMENT

If we gave those attending an enjoyable evening and one they would consider worth while, then for this reason alone the play was a success.

If in giving this play we have brought the Alumni association together as a live organization, that can be called upon to be of use to the community, then the play was a success even if we had just come out even financially.

The following report is respectfully submitted to the executive committee of the G. U. H. S. Alumni association and the members of the cast of "Polly of the Circus" Monday evening, April 26th, 1915:

Cash from sale of tickets	.....	$351.10
Less expense	.....	170.49
Profits	.....	$180.60
Palace Grand percentage	.....	90.30
Alumni Ass'n profits	.....	$90.30

Our profit is small in proportion to the amount from the sale of tickets. There was a total of $351.10 from tickets, with a net profit for us of $90.30. But the difference of $260.80 stayed here in the valley. Not one cent was paid to an outsider. Our coach was one known to all the ladies of the Thursday Afternoon club of Tropico and the Tuesday Afternoon club of Glendale through her untiring efforts in the literary and dramatic sections, and those who had the pleasure of seeing the play will appreciate the fact that we merely were able to pay her for her time. The item for advertising, $23.29, is very low, compared to the amount done. There is no expense item for costumes and only a slight bill for "make-up." Our biggest expense was the theater, but we could not give this play on the high school stage, so we had no alternative. As far as our business arrangement of dividing the profits—well, we had no precedent, so we could not be assured of our expenses, let alone a profit, and that seemed to be the best we could do. But there again, the $175 stayed here in Glendale and what helps one, helps all.

As to my personal experience in managing the affair, every part of the work has been a pleasure. I only wish each member of the association could have had my experience so he, too, would know how kindly and well we were treated—the merchants in helping us display our advertisements and everyone expressing himself that anything connected with the high school was all right. In this case the alumni are known by their Alma Mater. Let us be so known that our kind parents will also be proud of us.

All bills were paid last Saturday and the profits have been turned over to our treasurer, Miss Katherine Hobbs, and at our June meeting of all the members the exact form of high school scholarship will be voted upon.

DECEIVING THE PUBLIC

Men who deceive the public or at least attempt to do so, cannot be relied upon as safe business men with whom to deal.

There are placards up in a window in this city stating that "newspapers will not accept our advertising." This statement is made for effect, as it is a well known fact that the newspapers in Glendale never refused to take advertising from the firm in question.

This method is used to get the sympathy of the public, when in reality if the public would understand the object of the false statement, no reliance would be placed in a firm setting forth such claims.

STATEMENTS THAT RING TRUE

Certain statements as to improved business prospects emanating from the executive departments of two great railway corporations in the United States, the Lehigh Valley and the Pennsylvania, have no artificial sound. In a letter addressed to the president of the United States by the president of the first-named company, repudiating certain remarks in criticism of the national administration recently attributed to him that railroad official says the confidence of his road in the soundness of existing conditions is so strong that it will immediately proceed to expend $1,000,000 on betterments. In this case it is not the amount involved, but rather the evidence of a changing attitude on the part of one of the principal anthracite transportation lines, that carries weight. Influenced by a like impulse, the expenditure of $100 instead of $1,000,000 would be important.

Instead of $1,000,000, the Pennsylvania company proposes to expend $200,000,000 and in this instance the character of the intended outlay is especially worthy of attention since it is anticipatory of an industrial awakening. We are told that the equipment program includes 144 new locomotives, about 10,000 freight cars and 146 all-steel passenger cars. It is unnecessary to say that the Pennsylvania directors would not go so deeply into new hauling facilities unless they were looking forward with great confidence to an increase of business.

The president of the Lehigh Valley railroad tells the president of the nation that the proposed expenditure by the last mentioned company is felt to be "justified by improved business conditions," and that certain additional expenditures are contemplated as conditions continue to improve. That is to say, it is not with the idea of relieving unemployment, or with the view of inspiring other industrial concerns with the desire of emulation, or for any sentimental reason, but only because business warrants it, that an appropriation is made for increased equipment.

There is easily detected hollowness and shallowness and emptiness to forced and artificial prosperity. When trade conditions are really improving, although the improvement may be slow, the signs are unmistakable. Those becoming discernible at present, we believe, should be interpreted to mean that the period of business depression is drawing rapidly to an end.—Christian Science Monitor.

IT'S A GOOD LETTER AFTER ALL

Someone has advanced the opinion that the letter "e" is the most unfortunate letter in the alphabet, because it is always out of cash, forever in debt, never out of danger and in hell all the time. For some reason he overlooked the fortunes of the letter, as we call his attention to the fact that "e" is never in war and always in peace. It is the beginning of existence, the commencement of ease and the end of trouble. Without it there would be no meat, no life, and no heaven. It is the center of honesty, makes love perfect and without it there could be no editors, devils or news.—Fourth Estate.

WOOD PHOTOGRAPHS NOT NEW

Glendale, Cal., April 28, 1915

Editor The Glendale News:
Dear Sir: In reply to the article in yesterday's News entitled, "Novel Invention," I beg to state that the idea of printing photographic negatives upon wood is not a new one unless the wood upon which the print is to be made has not been previously treated.

The following is quoted from an article on the subject by A. J. Jarman, printed in the Photographic Times, 1908, Vol. XL, page 307:

"To prevent the absorption of water all parts of the wood block should be lightly coated with white wax, then a surfacing solution applied, composed of a mixture of water, gelatine and white castile soap, and allowed to dry, then a coating applied composed of the mixture of water, albumen of egg, chloride of ammonium and citric acid. After this is dry, a sensitizing solution is applied composed of a mixture of water and nitrate of silver. When it is completely dry, the printing of the image may be proceeded with."

Mr. Jarman says in his article that one of his inquirers on the subject states that many views can be rendered in line upon wood better than the half tone etchings produced upon zinc.

Yours respectfully,

W. A. HOUGH,
107 East Third Street, Glendale, Cal.

REDUCING THE COST OF RETAIL TRADE

There are two main elements of the cost in the goods you buy at the retail store: 1, the price you paid the dealer who sold them to the retailer; 2, the local cost of sales force and overhead charges, including the rent, taxes, bookkeeping, etc.

The first of these charges can be reduced only as exceptional skill in buying is shown by the retail dealer. But the second of these elements of expense for sales cost and overhead charges can be greatly lessened by advertising, which interests a great many people, draws more customers to the store, and increases sales.

If the sales are doubled, the expense of clerks, rent, taxes, bookkeeping may be increased little if any. Consequently the merchant can afford to sell his goods for much less, since he has cut these charges in two. That is why it is cheaper to buy from merchants who advertise.

Huerta has a come-back process of his own which he seems eager to try out down in Mexico. May the Lord help Mexico!

It is said that the price of goats will decline soon. Now let the cows withhold their milk as they may—we shall have a cheap-butter regime notwithstanding.

Orange day and ripe olive day are past, raisin day will soon be upon us, and sugar beet day and lima bean day are being suggested.

There has been considerable anxiety in this country over the supply of dyestuffs. And yet any gilded youth holds the secret of how to paint a whole town red.

The difference between dying of extreme heat and living in comparative comfort, so far as climatic conditions are concerned, is equal to the difference in distance between the Middle West and California.

The chief magistrate of this nation is a strong figure in the councils of the world only to the extent that he is backed, sincerely, earnestly and harmoniously by the approving sentiment of his countrymen, in all his foreign policies.

RESULTS OF "SWATTING" CAMPAIGNS

The French thought that there were so many mosquitoes at Panama that it would be impossible to build the canal. The Americans thought differently, and after killing off all the insects and skeeters, they had the satisfaction of knowing that the death rate instead of being nearly two-thirds among the workmen, had been reduced until the Panama Canal Zone was more healthful than the most favored portions of the United States. And yet there are people who claim that it is useless to "swat the fly," simply from the general belief that there are so many of them that it is a waste of energy. But the proof of the benefits to a community are shown very well at the national capital. For several years Washington has been "swatting" the fly and correcting various unsanitary conditions, during which time the general health of the city has constantly improved. Last year there were 100 less cases of typhoid fever in the city than in any previous season, while other diseases were less in evidence.

"The time has just about arrived for the biggest results to be achieved from this long warfare on the fly and filth," says an authority on health matters. "We did not expect to abolish the fly in a season or to make the capital a spotless city in so short a time. The 'swatting' habit and the 'clean-up' habit had to be acquired, but all Washingtonians now appear to be impressed with the importance of the work, and I look for the city to enter this summer upon the greatest era of healthfulness it has ever known."

Dr. Murray has pointed out that there were fewer flies in evidence at the close of last season than was the case in any previous year, and the citizens have already commenced to destroy the places that might serve as breeding places for the insects in order that the reduced number of winter survivors will be handicapped in bringing on this season's population.

THE KNOCKER'S CREED

Believe as I believe, no more, no less,
That I am right, and no one else,
confess;
Feel as I feel, think only as I think;
Eat what I eat and drink only what I drink;
Look as I do, do always as I do.
And then, only then, I'll fellowship with you.

That I am right, and always right,
I know,
Because my own convictions tell me so;
And to be right is simply this to be:
Entirely and in all respects like me.
To doubt, to question, or hesitate is sin.

I reverence the Bible if it be Translated first and then explained
by me;
By churchly laws and customs I abide,
If they with my opinions coincide;
All creeds and doctrines I admit divine,
Excepting those that disagree with mine.

Let sink the drowning if he will not swim
Upon the plank I throw to him;
Let starve the hungry if he will not eat
My kind and quality of bread and meat;
Let freeze the naked if he will not be
Clothed in such garments as are made for me.

Unless they take the medicine I give,
'Twere better sinners perish than refuse
To be conformed to my peculiar views;
'Twere better that the world stand still than move
In any other way than that which I approve.

Nearly every nation and tribe has a legend of the Garden of Eden. But this doesn't affect the strong presumption that the original Eden lay in the region now bounded on the north by Oregon, on the east by—well, let us say Iowa—on the south by Mexico and on the west by the Pacific ocean.

COMBATTING CIGARETTE HABIT IN THE YOUNG WITH L. PECT

A gratifying sign of the times is the systematic discouragement of the cigarette habit in the young. The teaching that is given in the schools in many of the states is bearing good fruit along this line. A number of worthy organizations, too, having to do with the training and influencing of the young, have put the noxious cigarette under the ban and are insisting that boys and young men coming under their influence and care must eschew the cigarette. Even business men, who themselves may be moderate smokers, realize the bad effects of cigarette smoking and draw the line against it among boys and young men in their employ. All in all, through legislation, and through home and school and church and organization influence, the cigarette habit is being unpopularized to an extent that is very pleasing to those who have the welfare of the young at heart.—Pasadena Star.

If potatoes were scarce and high this year, potato bread might be a popular substitute for wheat.

Mr. H. F. McDougal of the Gazette of St. Joseph concludes that "it isn't so hard to fool your neighbors, but there's little hope for the man who deceives himself."

Beware the man whom children and dogs don't like.

Watch a man's words and acts—then you have the measures of his life and his character.

ENGLAND 100 YEARS AGO

"The last few hundred millions," said Lloyd-George several months ago, "will win the war." Since then Great Britain has been pouring out money like water. She is as lavish of gold as Russia is of men. In this war she is spending men as she has never done before, but her chief dependence is still in her wealth.

It brings vividly to mind the England of a century ago. Before the Napoleonic menace appeared, the country was prosperous, the revenue was increasing, the capital debt was diminishing. Then came England's titanic wars in which, besides her own costly campaigns, she financed ally after ally as the iron ring was drawn around France. By 1814 the British national debt had risen to 900,000,000 pounds; and for the next thirty years the burden of taxation and the prostration of business brought such poverty that statesmen suggested the repudiation of part of the debt. England had been bled white of wealth, as France had of men.

Already in this war Great Britain has raised almost as much money as her whole series of Napoleonic wars cost her. Now, as then, she is incurring vast obligations in financing allies and friendly neutrals. She started the war owing $3,500,000,000. A single year of war will cost her nearly that much. If the war lasts for Kitchener's "three years," the British people may have a harder time of it for the next generation than they had a hundred years ago.

Life is a grind for the man whose grist isn't worth the grinding.

A well-equipped high school may be able to get along without a science or penmanship teacher, but surely not without a baseball coach.

FATIGUE AS A DISEASE

Dr. Hoag, addressing the students of Throop college, Pasadena, doubtless surprised them when he stated that fatigue is a disease. He did not mean the sense of weariness that follows hard work, but made a distinction between fatigue and "that tired feeling." Perhaps one not expert in such matters might confound the two.

Fatigue, explained the doctor, is the manifestation of the presence of poison in the system. As a rule, he said, the victim was fatigued all the time. No reference was made to the hookworm, although in the South, where fatigue seemed to prevail to an unusual extent, this creature got the blame for it, and science has worked out a scheme of elimination.

The remarks of the doctor were just enough to incite curiosity. One would like to be instructed as to how to draw the line. It would be possible for a lazy man to shun his task on the plea of fatigue when nothing but laziness aided him. Dr. Hoag's views are in consonance with reason and with such pathological knowledge as the intelligent layman may be supposed to possess.

There is poison generated by the failure of the body to throw off the waste tissue; poison also in air that has been breathed again and again. In either case the individual is aware that something is wrong. A person in an ill-ventilated space involuntarily yawns, this being the effort of his lungs to expel the poison. Even to become physically tired may involve the presence of poison, although healthy functioning soon causes it to be banished. However, the good doctor did not tell how to cure the fatigue ailment when it is fundamental and not the offshoot of qualities that make the sluggish.

It is twice as easy to fool yourself as it is to fool other people.

QUERY TO ALDERMAN O'FLYNN

(Contributed)

Election day is gone and past, three months now, more or less, And the ward is still agin and settled down, For the sorsers av the losers are all drownded in drink, Oi guess, And the winners have quit paintin' up the town.

The brand new board of alderman has met in city hall, And the candidate Oi worked for is sworn in, Oi suppose he's filled with bliss, but Oi'd loike to ax him this: "Do Oi get the job you promised me, O'Flynn?"

Whin the primarys was over and the Hogan gang went out, Sure, O'Flynn come crying baby loike ter me, And he took me to M'Carty's and he more than stood the shout, Fer he loved me loike a brother, don't you see.

"Av yer'll use yer best influence and turn Hogan down, he says, "Ye's can have yer pick of places there and then."

Well, Oi helped him whin he run—but for me he'd never won—"Do Oi get the job yer promised me, O'Flynn?"

In thim days before the votin' ivery livin' toime we'd meet, It was "Ha, me guld frind Denny, have a dhrink."

But the other morning, moind yer, whin Oi met him on the street, Sure, he passed me by and niver tipped a wink.

He was dressed in all his grandeur, with his Cady and his stick, And a blazin' diamond undernath his chin,

He was far too proud to see sich a common lad as me—"Do Oi get the job yer promised me, O'Flynn?"

Oi've been aisy-like and quiet, thinkin' sure that he'd report, But Oi'll wait no more fer that, at all, at all;

And Oi'll catch him some foina marnin' whin he's sthrollin down our court,

And Oi'll gently bank his head agin' the wall,

And Oi'll knock his shiney dicer ter the middle of next week,

Jist ter let him see Oi'm ready to begin,

Thin Oi'll draw me fist back so, and Oi'll ax him soft and low—"DO-OI-GIT-THE-JOB-YOU-PROMISED-ME-O'FLYNN?"

Good company and good discourse are the very sinews of virtue.—Izaak Walton.

SETTLE-UP DAY

A town in Iowa has held a "settle-up week," in which the merchants of the city organized a campaign to set aside a certain week for all who were indebted to them to settle up their bills. The idea worked very successfully and by means of it the merchants were able to pay thousands of dollars of local indebtedness, thus keeping much of the money in circulation right in town. The average merchant can always find ready use for the bills receivable on his books and in many instances some of the most dilatory in paying their bills are the class of people against whom he does not like to take harsh action, but who should realize that their accounts should be paid up promptly.

BOSTON POST TELLS HOW TO BREATHE PURE AIR

It does not suffice to breathe pure air—it must be properly breathed. All breathing should be done through the nose—never through the mouth—and, if possible, in the open air, or, at least, before an open window and several times daily.

The passage of air through the nose has the advantage of being warmed and moistened and, in reality, filtered.

While deep breathing has been advised and written about during recent years, it is interesting to know that Oriental teachers and philosophers have known and practiced it for generations. This best of all practices may not promote muscular strength or increase the size of the biceps, but it surely makes directly for the health of the lungs, heart, liver and abdominal organs, and it thereby greatly and surely serves the brain.

To take a perfect breath: Stand erect by an open window or out of doors. Pucker up the lips as though starting to whistle and slowly blow out the breath and empty the lungs of air. Then, closing your mouth, breathe through the nose, inhaling slowly and steadily, filling the entire lung cavity, which is done by bringing into play the diaphragm, which, descending, exerts a gentle pressure on the abdomen. In the final movement the lower part of the abdomen will be drawn in, which movement gives the lungs a support and also helps to fill the highest points of the lungs. Retain the breath for a few seconds. Then once again pucker up the lips as if to whistle and through the small opening slowly and gently exhale the breath.

THEATER HEADACHES

The most frequent cause of headaches occurring during or after the theater is eye strain. People who use the full energy of the delicate eye muscles to obtain perfect vision are often unconscious of this strain. In the theater the continuous effort to keep everything constantly focused exhausts the nerve centers and the headache is a result. The practice of seating the audience in total darkness while they are staring into an intensely lighted stage is another serious factor.

The pupils, being widely dilated in the dark, admit the excess of light from the stage, often producing irritation of the eyes that lasts sometimes for days.

Those subject to headaches should never sit where it is necessary to raise the eyes to watch the stage. This unnatural position of the eyes is very tiresome even to those who never have trouble at other times.—Journal of American Medical association.

It is so easy to do or to say something to make somebody a little happier, a little more cheerful. How much better it is to be a joy-giver than a joy-killer.

California begins harvesting earlier and keeps harvesting longer than any other part of the country. It is harvest time in the Imperial valley just now.

The town that stands together for progress is then and there already on that high road—united we stand to win, divided we may hang separately!

CARROLL VS. HOMER MOTORS CO.

This morning the civil suit between James Carroll of the Carroll Transfer company of this city and the Homer Motors company of Los Angeles was called before the superior court. Mr. Carroll was suing for $462.08—a claim for tires furnished a Homer motor tractor. Judgment for the full amount was awarded Mr. Carroll. Oliver Clark of Glendale was the attorney for the plaintiff.

THE LITERARY WILSON

Critics of President Wilson seek vainly to pick flaws in his methods of expression. He is a master of English, and he has the advantage that the scholar must possess. With some of his views it is possible for the citizen, quite as patriotic as Mr. Wilson himself, to differ. By the character and form through which these views reach the public, the critic, though prone to be hostile, has to confess himself disarmed. If frank and honest, he yields to the impulse to praise. The recent address given by the president to the Associated Press was an admirable utterance, not only in style, but in tone and substance. It was a plea for neutrality. It was an argument showing that war is not the highest mission of a nation, but that the test of national strength may fall upon the people enveloped in profound peace. Mr. Wilson sought to show, and in truth did show, the value of neutrality in that at the climax of this great war it would leave the United States the leading power of the world, the dominant moral influence. Reading it, one could not but be conscious of gratitude that the present crisis finds in the executive chair a man of intellectual stability, to whom the glory of battles makes no appeal. With a president of different character, such, for instance, as might be named, but shall not be, the United States even now would be at war with Mexico, and engaged in the European conflict. It is rather appalling to think what might have happened. This paper does not endorse the tariff theories of President Wilson, and says so as often as seems necessary, but it recognizes his excellent qualities and believes that in the times so trying to diplomacy, so fraught with delicate situations, he has conducted himself with high wisdom, fine discretion and in consonance with the best standards of honor.

RAISIN PRODUCTION

One hundred and eighty million pounds of raisins were raised in this state during the year 1914, according to the report of the state viticultural commissioner made public the other day. The market value of the season's product was $7,500,000, while the net profit to the growers was $1,500,000. An unprecedented increase is reported for 1914 over 1913, when the output totaled 129,074,000 pounds, a gain of 51,000,000 pounds. The production of muscats for raisin purposes was greatest, 60,000 tons. The average selling price was four cents per pound. Thompson seedless were second, with 18,000 tons, selling at 4½ cents per pound. Sultanas netted 9000 tons, and all the other varieties 3000 tons, making 90,000 tons for the season.

Which is the wiser and more humane—"watchful waiting" or hotspur intervention?

Statisticians are busy figuring what might have been done with the sixty thousand dollars that will be expended in the trip of Liberty bell. Always a futile and foolish process. The sum mentioned does not represent the last sixty thousand available to the good people of Philadelphia, and they are privileged to go right on with their charities and improvement.
